Both Capper and Hodges Getting Ready for Contest.

Capper Will Likely Appeal to Supreme Court.

HODGES WILL GO TO SENATE

Kansas Law on Contests Vague and Uncertain.

Lewis King of Cowley, New Senator, Served in the '80s.

With the almost certain prospect of a gubernatorial contest in Kansas this year, lawyers both for Senator George H. Hodges and Arthur Capper are laying plans for one of the most bitter ing plans for one of the most officers in the history of the state. If Hodges brings contest proceedings, he will unquestionably seek relief before a Democratic senate. In event their slowness and inaccuracies." fore a Democratic senate. In event their for the gubernatorial chair, he will probably cast his lot with the supreme court, going to that tribunal on quo warranto proceedings Capper is the aggressor in the contest warranto proceedings.

There are many interesting legal phases to be presented in the case and the progress of the Kansas governor ship controversy has already attracted the attention of judges and trial lawyers in all parts of the state. In the first place the mode of procedure in gubenatorial contest proceedings in this state is none too well defined. For that reason the books are being searched for the legal technicalities that are bound to have an important part in the proceedings.

One of the contest cases which will probably be authority in the impending action is the Yeager-Alkman Judicial contest before the 1909 senate. In that case N. A. Yeager was defeated for her head beaten with a hammer. listrict judge in the Thirteenth district by 18 votes. Yeager was a Dem-ocrat. He contested Aikman's election in a Republican senate and all but Mrs. Green a husband and two sons. But Yeager overlooked several points of law. In the first place he failed to give the required notice of contest within the required time and he falled to file his proceedings less than ten days after the convening of the senate. For two weeks it was 3 rough and tumble fight before the ate and in the end leager was beaten. He went to the supreme court on que warranto proceedings. But that body refused to review the case or to order a recount of the ballots which Yeager alleged had been illegally counted for his opponent. In their review of the case, the supreme court declared that Yeager had accepted jurisdiction in the senate, that he had selected the cour! on which he relied to win his case and that after losing, he could not go to another tribunal and seek re-And Aikman was given the judge-

Now the proceedings are being shaped by the lawyers representing the gubernatorial contenders. If lawyers representing the gubernatorial contenders. open to the warring gubernatorial candidates, the fight for the honor of the state's chief executive, is both moved and interesting. In event a contest is filed, it will be the first contest for a governor's seat in the history of the Black Champion Has Been in

There are several thousand ballots the contestants claim were lected and should have been count jected and should have been counter for them. These ballots are scattered over the state and in probably 300 of the 2,300 election precincts of the state. In a contest it would be necessary for the complainant to specify the manner in which the rejected ballots were marked, the number of ballots ted and the precincts in which the were cast. Then the defending candidate might reply with a claim that several thousand ballots were re-jected which should have been counted or him. And thus a commission appointed either by the senate or the supreme court might work for six menths or a year in an effort to determine who is really the legally and rightfully elected governor of the state. And in the end someone would be called on to pay the cost bill that would amount to several times the anbual salary of the office.

"I want to say that it is easier to find fault than it is to suggest improvements, it is not true that Kansas is behind other states in this matter. The same checking and rechecking and revertiying of election returns is going on right now in every state in the Union. It so happens that the narrow shade between Mr. Capper and Senator Hodges brings the question prominently before the public. That's all. Those bright, impatient men who criticise the slow and inaccurate methods of counting ballots could help if they would volunteer to act as judges and Late Thursday afternoon Capper gained one vote on the face of the official returns from Brown county. Only Seven Counties Out.

With seven counties yet to report to the secretary of state and basing their returns on former returns, Senator George H. Hodges this alternoon has a lead of 28 votes over Arthur Capper for governor. In 98 counties reported, Capper has a popular vote of 142,925 to 140,046 for Hodges. But six of the seven counties to report are Hodges counties and the pluralities in all of the 105 counties show 12,146 for Capper and 12,174 for Hodges.

Hodges gained eight votes today when five additional counties reported. His gains were eight in Cowley and one in Jeweil.
